Lucky Students Treated today at the radio station

EARLIER TODAY, FOUR LUCKY STUDENTS FROM STOKE HIGH SCHOOL ORMISTON ACADEMY WERE INVITED TO BBC RADIO SUFFOLK TO BECOME GUEST EDITORS.

The event was planned as part of BBC School Report.

The four students—Ben, Tyler, Hallie and Natasha – were guest editors on Mark Murphy’s show.

On the show the guests were: a policeman, a man from trading standards and a pilot that has flown the route that MH370 took.

Ben said that he enjoyed the experience and they covered four stories, which were: teenager stereotypes, underage smoking, e-readers vs paperback books and plane safety.

Hallie said “It was very educational and it gave us a good experience. It was a very interesting visit and we now have a better understanding of radio news.

We had a tour of the radio station, we were told about how they produce the radio broadcast and we spoke to some producers, editors and presenters.

Also we brainstormed questions for the interviews with the guests on the show, we spoke on the show, we met the whole team and planned the show. All in all, we had an excellent day.”
